On the Law and Lawyers. Paper 3.

HAVING diſengag'd myſelf from ſome Company, t'other Night, that had been too noiſy to be any Way engaging, I made my Retreat to my Study; and the idle Converſation having furniſh'd my Head with little worth ruminating on, I took the firſt Book that came to Hand, which happened to be Don Quevedo's Viſions, in order to amuſe myſelf. The Viſion I open'd upon was that of the Catchpole poſſeſs'd; where, as in moſt of the reſt, is ſo much Satire, intermix'd with ſo much moral Truth, as can never fail of giving Entertainment to any Mind given to Reflection. The Impreſſion it made on me was ſo ſtrong, that, after I had properly prepar'd myſelf, and compos'd me for Repoſe, the Soul, diſdainful of that Inactivity which was requiſite to the Support of its Hoſt the Body, carry'd me into Regions that I had before been wholly a Stranger to. Methought I found myſelf in the Midſt of a great Crowd in a very ſpacious Apartment, at the Upper-End whereof ſate three venerable Perſons (venerable by Age, but more by Aſpect) advanc'd on Seats, to render them more conſpicuous to all the Company. Their every Look ſtruck me with Awe, and naturally led me to enquire of the very next to me, Who they were, and what they were going upon? Don't you know them? reply'd he; perhaps you ſoon may, to your Sorrow. For though this be a Day ſet apart for judging of Lawyers, yet theſe are they before whom all muſt appear, and by whoſe Sentence the Great as well as Little muſt abide. He in the Middle there is Minos; and Æacus and Rhadamanthus ſit on each Hand. This Account ſurpriz'd me with a freſh Terror; which my Informant perceiving, added, by way of Conſolation, that if I was no Lawyer, I might adjourn my Apprehenſions to a further Day; for that none but the Cauſes of ſuch were then to come before them. I could not but take Notice, that all at that Time preſent were Engliſh, excepting a very few that came from an United Kingdom, who, I underſtood afterwards, had wiſely left the Place of their Nativity, lay'd down their Packs, which nevertheleſs had left on their Shoulders Marks of their former Vocation, and under the Benefit of the Union had tranſplanted themſelves in order to turn Attorneys and Barriſters. So ſoon as Silence had been thrice proclaim'd, and all appear'd in a perfect Huſh; the Clerk, who was a meagre lath-gutted Wretch, ſtood up, and holding a Paper in his Hand, which I ſuppos'd to be, as I after found it, a Liſt of the Criminals for that Sitting appointed for Trial, the firſt call'd upon was Peter Puzzle-cauſe. The Fellow anſwer'd to his Call readily enough, and advanc'd with a Countenance that demonſtrated that Shame had not lately been of its Acquaintance. No ſooner had Rhadamanthus caſt his Eye upon him, but, with a Sternneſs very natural, he call'd to him, and told him, That notwithſtanding a decent Aſſurance might become the Innocent, his conſummate Front betoken'd Guilt rather than Innocence, and ſeem'd to threaten the Court that Juſtice itſelf was in ſome Danger of being brow-beat. But, added he, Conſider where and who you are before. Human Weakneſſes, though what we were not Strangers to while on Earth, were always the Slaves of Reaſon, the Merit of which ſtation'd us here. As far as our Limits permit us, we ſhall be ready to ſhow Compaſſion: But, I muſt tell you, the full Antitheſis to Modeſty is by no Means the Way to gain it. The bold Vitilitigator, not at all mov'd at what would have confounded a Spirit of leſs Audacity, anſwer'd, That he had been ſworn and enter'd accordingly, purſuant to a late Act of Parliament, and therefore was come before them to put himſelf upon his Trial voluntarily, having for Diſpatch given the Clerk in Court his Fee to put him firſt upon the Liſt. But Minos, jealous that ſome Trick might lie conceal'd under ſuch an Over-Forwardneſs, mov'd that his Hearing might be poſtpon'd; to which the other two aſſenting, Puzzle-cauſe was ſet aſide to ſome future Hearing, and another call'd in his room. I was ruminating what ſhould be the Meaning of poſtponing the Trial of ſuch an Offender as he ſeem'd to be, when turning about, before I could aſk the Queſtion, the Cryer call'd out Skin-all; I remember'd one of the Name, a true Stapler in Law, and that drew my Eyes to ſee if it was the ſame. So ſoon as ever he had clear'd his Eyes of their original Rheum, and wip'd his Noſe (for he always was Maſter of a running Brain, or at leaſt what he call'd Brain was always that Way a running) he demanded, Attorney-like, an Account of his Charge. An Account of your Charge? ſaid the grim Officer; Why, here's an Indictment ſix Yards long.——I never heard of the Fellow of it, unleſs it was that of a Leucophlegmatian Lawyer, which coming before a Jad Judge, its Length had the Luck to be made Matter of Innocence. My Lords, cry'd Skin-all, with a ſqueaking Sort of Vociferation, Is not this a Sort of foreclaſing the Court? Upon which Minos call'd out to the Clerk —— Read —— Read. I remember, Champertney, Barratry, Subornation and Perjury were ſome of the Heads of the Charge; but what ſtuck moſt upon the poor Cull was, that he had once carried on a Cauſe for a Perſon in Priſon, and when he had recover'd Debt, Coſts and Charges, ſlipt his Client, and ſlunk the Whole into his own Pocket. The Evidence was ſo full, that Skin-all was put to his whole Troop of Evaſions and Quibbles; notwithſtanding all which, the Judges unanimouſly decreed him Tantalus's Puniſhment, only changing the Element of Water into that of Fire. So ſoon as he was carry'd away out of Court to the Place of his warmer Ordeal, the Clerk in Court call'd another; but none anſwering to the Name, Enquiry was made what was become of him? The Jailor, aſſur'd of an Impoſſibility of any Eſcape, was leaving the Court to make a Search, when one of his Imps meeting him, acquainted the Court, that the poor Wretch, conſcious of his own vaſt Demerits, had taken Sanctuary in a flaming Lake to avoid a Trial. A Notion we ſee too often prevalent on Earth, where Men frequently, to prevent preſent Miſery, immerge themſelves eternally. After a little Pauſe, the Clerk in Court was order'd to call the next in the Roll; who happen'd when on Earth to be a very Medley of a Man. As ſoon as he had heard his Indictment read, he demurr'd to the Validity of the Proceſs, as being charg'd as a Lawyer, when it was very well known he had never acted in any other Capacity than as a common Catchpole. For this, he offer'd in Evidence ſeveral Perſons ſtanding near him: But Minos enquiring into their Profeſſions, found them all of his own Tribe. Upon which Minos rejoin'd, that as in their own native Country all Butchers were debarr'd from being upon Juries of Life and Death, ſo it had been a Rule immemorial in theſe lower Regions, never on any Occaſion to admit as Evidence any Catchpole. And as to the Error which he pretended was in the Indictment, the Judges appeal'd to an able Practiſer then in Court; who depos'd, upon Oath, that a Catchpole and a Lawyer were ever by the Learned deemed ſynonymous. Minos was hereupon going on to Trial, in order to Sentence, when the Brotherhood rais'd an Uproar, which ſeem'd to threaten not only a Diſturbance to the Court, but to endanger the Conſtitution. Immediately, on a Sign given, ruſh'd in a horn'd Regiment of Janizaries, who ſeiz'd them every one, and purſuant to Order carry'd them to the Lake reſerv'd for Atheiſts and Sodomites. They had hardly been hurry'd out of Court, when a little Cub of the Law, with as little Hair upon his Chin as Brains in his Head, pertly advanc'd to the very Bar, ſaying he was next Oars, and for that Reaſon come to ſave them the Trouble of calling him. He had in his Hand a Midwife and Evidence both in one, who having been his Client, had adminiſtred to him large Experience of her various Qualifications. The Judges at firſt ſtood a little aghaſt at the Aſſurance of the tiny Creature: But at laſt bidding the Clerk read, they found Little Maſter, however green in Years, had come up to the moſt adult in Mammonical Merits and Acquiſitions. The Judge was going to give Sentence, when the forward Cub ſolicited hard to be heard by himſelf or Council. In Compaſſion to his Youth, the Court indulg'd him: When, with a Hem or two to introduce Utterance, he deſir'd them to conſider, that he had not been long a Practiſer before he was call'd off the Stage, and that it was excuſable in Youth if, ambitious to arrive to be conſiderable he had ſtuck at no Means to gain Riches for a Foundation. A good Foundation, my Lords, continued he, is, in my humble Opinion, the moſt promiſing Method to raiſe a good Superſtructure; and therefore I held myſelf oblig'd, in Nature as well as Profeſſion, per fas & nefas, as the Learned have it, to diſplay a double Diligence in my Function. True it is, I may have gone aſide from the rigid Rules of Honeſty and Integrity: But then have I not to plead in Mitigation, my Lords, Cuſtom and Preſcription? My Maſter taught me, to be ſure, nothing but what he was taught by his Maſter, and ſo ad infinitum: If, therefore, all have err'd by Precedent and Example, the Law, and not its Followers, are to be reſponſible. Beſide, ſaid he, —— and was going on, when Rhadamanthus ſtarted up, and bad him hold his Babbling, and conſider he was not before Judges that were to be wheedled or prevaricated out of their Senſes: Ill Example, ſaid he, is not to be pleaded as Precedent in this Court: For whoever follows a Multitude to do ill, will be ſure to reap the Fruits of it in an equitable Share of the Puniſhment due to their Demerits. You had Reaſon to guide you; if you had not, and wanted that, with ſomewhat elſe, why did you undertake a Calling you were no Ways qualified for? In ſhort, the Signal was immediately given, when enter'd four of the horn'd Janizaries with a Blanket, in order to clear all the Avenues to his Underſtanding; after which preparatory Purgation, he was left to his Option, whether to boil with Icarus, or fry with Phaeton. He would fain, (and forwardly enough,) have made an Execution-Speech for the Inſtruction of his Brethren: But, as App—— was not at hand to take the Minutes, the Court refuſ'd to indulge him. Scarce was the Court got clear of him, when the Hall rebounded with an aſtoniſhing Din and Clamour of, Room! Room! The Judges themſelves at firſt were under ſome little Conſternation; till they obſerv'd, advancing in the Middle of the Hall, a Perſon of no little Appearance, with two Tipſtaves before him to clear the Way. Charon had taken away from them the Staves of their Office; but, inſtead thereof, had given each of them a Fly-flap to keep the Breezes from repaying, before the appointed Time, their unconſcionable Voracities upon the Sores of their unfortunate Fellow-Creatures. Their Lord, as they call'd him, was ſtately in his Step as well as Perſon; and advanc'd directly up to the Judges, as if he expected to be admitted to take his Seat. But the Bar-keeper, ſtopping him, aſk'd his Buſineſs? Is there nothing, ſaid the Shade, to be expected in this Region but Rudeneſs? The Ferryman, continued he, begun the Dance, and would not admit me into his Boat till he had ſtript me of my Lambſkin; and when ſtripp'd, it was with much ado I obtain'd the Favour of bringing it along with me under my Arm. It was to put it on, that I might properly appear before your Serenities (addreſſing himſelf to the Judges) that I ſtay'd by the Way, to the End that at firſt View you might diſcover our Relation by the Tokens. —— Rhadamanthus, offended at ſo much matchleſs Arrogance, cut him ſhort by telling him, Relation here was of no Avail; nor could they, by the Rules of the Court, admit him to his Trial till the Arrival of proper Witneſſes. However, becauſe he ſeem'd in haſte, they had always ready drawn proper Interrogatories, upon which if he was willing to anſwer, they ſhould be read to him in open Court. With an Air of Indignation mixt with Contempt, he at firſt rejected the Propoſal; till finding there was no Way of avoiding it, he deſir'd to hear them. Upon which the Clerk took them into his Hand, and with an audible Voice, read as follows. Firſt, Did you never take, or allow to be taken by any belonging to you, any Bribe, Gratuity, or Reward, to the Delay or Deviation of Juſtice? Secondly, Did you never lend an Ear to Might againſt Right: Or give a hard Sentence on the Cauſe of the Poor to curry Favour with the Rich? Thirdly, Did you always maintain the Right of the Widow and Fatherleſs againſt their Oppreſſors? Fourthly, Did you never go Snacks with any of your Clerks in their Exceedings? On reading the laſt, he grew quite out of Patience, ſaying ſuch Interrogatories were never exhibited to a Perſon of his Rank before. They did not treat him in Quality, he cry'd. Yes, yes, ſaid the Cryer, Hales and Holt — will tell you they anſwer'd to the ſame; if ever you get to ſpeak with them. One of the Tips, thinking himſelf in his old Station, was going to correct this Saucineſs to his Maſter, with a Knock, when methought a File or two of the horn'd Janizaries fell upon them, and cry'd one and all, Away with them! Away with them to their Brother Catchpole! The Conteſt and the Clamour wak'd me; but in ſuch a Fright, that I have hardly yet recover'd it.

WHoe'er thou art, Noble or Peaſant, ſtay;
This little Urn with mournful me ſurvey.
A Sun thou'lt find, diſſolv'd, and cold as Ice;
A Heav'n turn'd Earth, a Star in Aſhes lies.
Nature in Death has denizened all;
Sceptres and Crowns obey his mighty Call.
Ope' then thy flowing Eyes; indulge thy Woe;
Approach, and ſee the Queen that teaches ſo.
Alive, the Sun could nothing greater ſee:
But dead, alas! what is there leſs than ſhe?

CHLOE, tell; and tell me truly,
All the Pray'rs, you offer duly,
Are they for the Wretches you
Slew? Or for yourſelf that ſlew?
For yourſelf? that you ha' ſlain?
Loſt they are, alas! and vain.
How can any Compenſation
Riſe from ſuch a late Oblation?
For but Thouſands tho' they are,
Can they be atton'd with Pray'r?
If you ſay, you recommend
Thoſe you murder'd; mind me, Friend,
Short your Reaſon is; for ſtill
Tho' you pray that you did kill;
Will't Excuſe, or Pardon bear,
That you murder ſtill in Pray'r?

And

Yeſterday ſeven Men, not only arm'd as the former with Fire-Arms, but having alſo Swords and Hangers, took it into their Heads to deſtroy the Rabbits belonging to the Keepers of Epping-Foreſt. The Keepers came out to them, and would have perſuaded them to deſiſt; but the Fellows turn'd their Pieces upon them, and immediately ſhot two of the Dogs that were ſtanding near them; upon which the Keepers retir'd, as likewiſe did the others ſoon after, leaving the dead Rabbits behind them.

'Tis ſaid the Occaſion of it was by a Gentleman, that lodged in that Room, who had been reading ſeveral Hours in his Bed, and falling aſleep, the Candle ſet Fire to the Curtains, and he narrowly eſcaped being burnt. Several of the Lodgers in the Houſe with great Difficulty ſaved their Lives, but had not Time to put on their Cloaths. The Damage ſuſtained is very conſiderable.

That the Reviving of Stock without an Order or Conſent of a General Court, was an Impoſition on the Proprietors, and a Violation of the By-Laws and Orders of ſeveral preceding General Courts.

That the Neglect of calling a General Court at Lady-Day, and not attending at this Court, as alſo not holding weekly Courts of Aſſiſtants at the Company's Houſe ſince January laſt, was a Neglect of Duty.

That a General Court be held on Tueſday next, when

A Motion was afterwards made, that the further Report of the Committee of the House of Commons should be printed, or left in the Office to be perused by the Proprietors; but it pass'd in the Negative.

THURSDAY, June 21.

On Tuesday came on a Trial at Guildhall before the Hon. Mr. Justice Page, wherein a Weaver of Spittle-fields was Plaintiff, and a young Gentlewoman Defendant, on a Note supposed to be the Hand-writing of the said Gentlewoman, for 4000l. pretended to be given to the Plaintiff, as a Security or Confirmation that she would be married to him, and afterwards would not, whereupon he brought his Action; but the Court committed the Plaintiff to Newgate for publishing the said Note, it appearing to be false, forged, and counterfeit, the Plaintiff knowing it to be such.

Yesterday came on a Cause before the Lord Chief Justice Eyre, between the House-keeper of Sir John Brown Plaintiff, and Sir John Brown Defendant. The Action was brought for unlawfully detaining and keeping her close Prisoner in his House for the Space of three Days; and after a short Hearing, the Jury gave a Verdict for the Plaintiff, with 10l. Damages.

The same Day was held a General Court of the South-Sea Company, at their House in Threadneedle-street, when the Minutes of the last General Court being read, were approv'd: And whereas the Time for marking the Company's Bonds for an Interest of 3 ½ per Cent. expir'd on the 25th of May last, the Court agreed to allow the Term of one Month for marking what may be still, by any Accident or otherwise, out-standing. The Court likewise resolv'd, that there should be no private Transfers during the Shutting of the Books. A Motion was then made to offer some suitable Acknowledgment to the Gentlemen of whom the Committee consisted that lately inspected into the Affairs of the Company, and whose Report was some Time since receiv'd; and the Thanks of the Court was unanimously given them.

Extract of a Letter from Salem in New-England, dated April 9.

This Day his Majesty's Ship the Scarborough (20 Guns, and about 120 Men) Capt. Durell, Commander, arrived here from Sal Tortuga, (a desolate Island, to Leeward of Barbadoes, producing nothing but Salt, and on that Account resorted to by the English Ships early every Spring, to load Salt for the Fisheries.) She brings Advice, that on March 13, the Day appointed for the Fleet under her Convoy to set sail, about Six in the Morning they saw at a Distance two large Ships, and at Seven they perceived that they had British Colours out: An Hour afterwards the same Ships hoisted out Spanish Colours and parted, one standing in towards the Shore, and the other kept his Offing. These Ships proved to be two Spanish Men of War, one of 69, the other of 70 Guns, and full of Hands: About Nine o'Clock the Men of War fired on some of the English Fleet, dispersed and took four of them by Ten; whereupon Capt. Durell sent his Lieutenant to demand the Reason; but they refused to speak with the Boat, and fired a Broad-side upon the Scarborough, which she return'd, and Capt. Durell kept them in Action till he got off 32 Sail of the Fleet: About Six in the Afternoon the Spaniards stood off with their four Prizes, viz. the Ship Katharine, Andrew Woodbury, Master, Mr. Samuel Brown of Salem, sole Owner, supposed to be valued at 7000l New-England Currency, or upwards; the Brig. Two Sisters, Capt. Habakkuk Gardiner, and Capt. Benjamin Brown of Salem, Owner; the Brig. Hopewell, John Wells, Master, and the Hon. Thomas Hutchenson, Esq; of Boston, Owner. Not the Life of one Englishman was lost in this Action, without it happen'd on board the aforementioned Vessels, of which we can give no certain Account; but the Spanish Ships being crowded with Hands, very probably lost some of them.

Yesterday at the Horse-Races at Kentish-Town, three Horses started for the 10l. Plate, which was won by Sir Robert Fagg's Bay Stone-Horse.

Robbery. Last Tuesday Night between Nine and Ten o'Clock, one Anthony Thacker, a poor Man, returning from Deptford, was robb'd near the seven Houses between that Place and Rotherhith, of his Hat, Wig, and Threepence in Money, by five Foot-pads dress'd like Sailors, who afterwards beat him and threw him into a Ditch, where he very narrowly escap'd being smother'd.

Yesterday came on a Trial in the Court of Exchequer, Westminster, before the Lord Chief Baron Reynolds, wherein the East India Company was Plaintiff, and Mr. Nash, their late Supercargo, Defendant; relating to some Transactions of the Defendant's in the Company's Service abroad; and after a long Hearing the Jury brought in a Verdict for the Plaintiff of 26,864l. Damage, with Costs of Suit.

The same Day came on a Trial before the Lord Chief Justice Eyre, in the Court of Common-Pleas, Westminster, wherein Mr. Billinger, a Worcester Carrier, was Plaintiff, and Mr. Simms at the Swan at Knightsbridge, Defendant, on an Action brought against the Defendant for detaining the Horse that Gordon the late famous Highwayman was taken upon; the Plaintiff making it appear, that the Horse was his own, and stolen from him by Gordon, and he tendering down the Money for keeping him to the said Defendant, who refused to deliver him; whereupon the Jury brought in their Verdict of 25l. for the Plaintiff, and Costs of Suit, and ordered the Defendant to take the Horse.

On Monday last was heard at Serjeants-Inn-Hall in Chancery-Lane, before the Hon. the Court of Delegates, an Appeal of a Cause from the High Court of Admiralty, wherein Jonathan Forward was Appellant, and Jonathan Norie Respondent, in relation to Wages due to the said Respondent; when their Lordships, after hearing the learned Arguments of several Civilians and Counsellors on both Sides, were pleas'd to decree in favour of the Respondent, and to condem the Appellant in Costs of Suit.

On Tuesday last eleven Dear-stealers, arm'd with Fire-Arms, came into Enfield-Chace, and went in a Body to the House of Mr. Mason, one of the Keepers, to demand the Horse which was taken from them the Tuesday before, but he not giving them any satisfactory Answer, one of the Gang fired his Gun at him, but luckily miss'd him; after which they rode to Mr. Woodman's, another of the Keepers, and seeing him at home, some of them shot in at his Windows, but the Shot did no Mischief there neither; then they went to Mr. Crew's the third Keeper, where they shot two Blood-hounds and a fine Spaniel, and fir'd at his Windows, and afterwards went away swearing to return at some other Time, and put the whole Fraternity of Keepers to Death, in revenge for the Loss of their Horse.

On Monday Evening Mr. Thomas Allbritton, Son of Mr. Samuel Allbritton, an eminent Glover on London-Bridge, being on a Lighter near Rotherhith Church, had the Misfortune to fall over-board, and was drowned.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Stockholm, June 4. N. S.

THEY write from Warsaw, that King Stanislaus's Friends leave no Stone unturn'd to promote the Reaccession of that Prince to the Throne; in the mean while the Sticklers or the Elector of Saxony are far from being idle: The open Declarations of the Empress of Russia against the former of those Candidates, the private Intrigues of the Emperor of Germany in favour of the latter, and the secret Practices of France on the other Side, have reduced the Poles to no inconsiderable Dilemma: And 'tis not doubted but they have already taken the Resolution to chuse a third Person, who being unknown and a Native, his Election cannot any Ways give Offence to the neighbouring Princes.

Vienna, June 6. N. S. Among the many Couriers lately arriv'd here, one from Constantinople brings a Confirmation of the City of Babylon's being closely block'd up, but not yet taken: He reports, that the Sultan has order'd all his Troops to march to its Succour, and has accordingly employ'd prodigious Sums for their Encouragement: that in order to make a Diversion of the Army before Babylon, it has been resolv'd, that the Crim Tartars shall invade Persia on the Side of Georgia, and lay all waste before them; but as these Gentlemen are obliged to pass through some of the Czarina's Dominions, 'tis not doubted but they will first exchange a few Blows en passant.

Genoa, May 30. Part of the Conceſſions of this Republick to her Subjects of Corſica, obtain'd at the Interceſſion of the Emperor, and under his Guaranty, are as follow, viz. That 18 Corſican Families ſhall be added to the Nobility of Genoa, and inveſted with all their Privileges; that two Corſican Commanders be appointed to reſide at Baſtia and Ajaccio; that the Iſland may have the Liberty of ſending an Agent to this City to ſollicit her Affairs; that the Corſicans may fill up the vacant Biſhopricks with Perſons of their own Nomination; that all the Taxes impoſ'd for the Service of the preſent Year ſhall be remitted; that a general Amneſty blot out paſt Behaviour, and that all poſſible Encouragement ſhall be given to Trade, &c.

Amſterdam, June 6. We hear from Germany, that the King of Sweden, as Landgrave of Heſſe-Caſſel, has acceded to the Pragmatick Sanction; as will alſo very ſoon the Electors of Bavaria and Palatine; that the Duke of Mecklemburg is reſolv'd to ſhut himſelf in Schwerin, and to ſuffer any Hardſhips rather than ſubmit to the Imperial Commiſſion. They write from Warſaw, that ſeveral of the Poliſh Grandees complain loudly of the Violence offer'd them in the late Dyet, and that they have made preſſing Inſtances to Rome to get a Diſpenſation for the Oath they took in it to elect no King but a Native. 'Tis whiſper'd that a certain Power in the good Graces of the Pope, has more than half prevail'd with his Holineſs to grant it; and ſome are ſanguine enough to ſay the Reſolution is already taken.

Paris, June 27. We learn by private Letters from Madrid, that on the 5th Inſtant the King of Spain received at Valdepennas a Courier Extraordinary from Oran, with News, that on the 25th paſt the Marquis de Villadarias, Governor General of Oran, having learn'd by his Spies, that a Convoy of 600 Camels, laden with all Sorts of Proviſions and Ammunitions of War, was on the Road to the Camp of the Infidels, ſent immediately a Detachment of the Garriſon to intercept it. This Detachment ſurpriz'd the Guard, and put it to flight, after ſome Reſiſtance, and hamſtring'd all the Camels, except 52 of the fineſt, which the Commander of the Detachment conducted to Oran, with what he found moſt valuable of the Convoy, and after ſetting Fire to the reſt, which he could not carry, the Detachment began their March back to Oran; but the Runaways of the Eſcorte having given the Alarm in the Infidels Camp, the whole Army marched out to cut off the Detachment of the Spaniards, who happily getting under the Forts of St. Philip and St. George, and being joined by a great Part of the Garriſon, faced the Enemy, who attacked the Spaniards deſperately, and notwithſtanding the great Fire of the Artillery of all the Forts, and the Muketry of the Garriſon, which kill'd them a prodigious Number of People, they remain'd ſome Time receiving all the Fire, and making likewiſe continual Diſcharges, but ſeeing the Hazard of loſing their whole Army, they thought fit to retire, after ſuſtaining great Loſs. The ſame Courier brought alſo News, that a Spaniſh Squadron was cruizing off Oran. The other Squadron join'd by the Malteſe continues ſtill in the Canal of Malta, waiting for the Algerine Squadron, which is ſtill on the Coaſt of Turkey.
